Give all the sheep a name
of someone in your family flock.

Don't forget your own name.

If you want, you can add more sheep.

Label the staff with the highlighted words

I am the Good Shepherd

The staff keeps the Shepherd steady. He can keep us from falling when our path gets a little bumpy.

The Good Shepherd uses the staff to protect us .

The Good Shepherd uses the staff to guide us on our journey.

The Good Shepherd lays down His life for his sheep

Cheerios Sheep Snack Recipe

PREP TIME 30 mins

TOTAL TIME 30 mins

SERVINGS about 10 sheep

Ingredients

- 2 1/2 cups mini marshmallows plus a few additional for assembly
- 4 cups multi-grain cheerios or chocolate Cheerios, depending on desired sheep's color
- 10 - 12 chocolate covered almonds white and/or dark
- 1/2 cup chocolate chips semi-sweet or milk
- 20 pretzel sticks
- 2 tbsp of butter (try to get unsalted)

How to make it

1. Place a heavy bottomed saucepan over medium low heat and melt butter. Add marshmallows and stir just until melted.
2. Remove from heat and add 2 cups of Cheerios at a time and mix until the cereal is evenly coated in marshmallow.
3. Spoon out 1 heaping tablespoon of cereal mixture mold into an egg like shape using lightly greased hands. While the mixture is able to be shaped, make an indentation where the head and legs will be placed on the body. (Use an extra almond and pretzel to make the exact size indentation that will be needed, noting that about half of the almond and half the length of the pretzel will need to be embedded into the body for them to remain in place after they have been adhered with the melted chocolate.)
4. Melt chocolate chips in the microwave to use as glue. (This should only take a few seconds.)
5. Apply small amount of melted chocolate to the ends of the almonds and pretzels and press them into the indentations that were made in the body. Allow the chocolate to set.
6. For the ears, cut mini marshmallows into small pieces and use melted chocolate to glue them on top of head. (I cut them in four pieces)
7. For the eyes, dip a toothpick into melted chocolate and add two dots to face.

If you have a nut allergy, Mom or Dad might have to get inventive for the head. You can try scotch mints. Remember to make the indents for the head and feet while the Cheerios mix is still soft. If you have experience making Rice Krispies Squares in the microwave, you can probably mix your marshmallows and Cheerios the same way. could even try using Rice Krispies instead of Cheerios. While you are making your sheep, remind yourself to follow Jesus, your Good Shepherd.
